MAIN FEATURES

- In 1980-81 for the first time statistics of industrial accident claims were compiled on the basis of the year in which the accident occurred.
- In that year there were 13,739 accidents at work resulting in absences of at least one week, and for which the total time lost was 74,515 weeks. There were also 1,657 disease claims reported, including 907 which resulted in 6,739 weeks of time lost.
- From 1980-81, the range of items collected was extended to include:
 - (a) accidents while travelling to and from work (1,064 including 9 fatalities);
 - (b) accidents during work recess periods (115);
 - (c) all cases of noise induced hearing loss (including 750 cases resulting in less than one week's absence from work);
 - (d) details of the extent of residual disability following industrial accidents and diseases.
- In 1980-81, 43 fatalities occurred of which 19 resulted from accidents while working, 15 from diseases and 9 while travelling to or from work.
- In 1980-81 there were 56 cases of permanent total disability: 40 followed accidents while working, 1 followed an accident during the journey to work and 15 resulted from disease.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

INTRODUCTION

From 1980-81 significant changes were introduced to the collection. As well as providing additional information, one purpose of these changes was the provision of each State's statistics on a more uniform basis with the aim of producing national aggregates.

2. The main change has been to compile the statistics on the basis of the year each accident OCCURRED, rather than on the basis of the year in which each claim was closed as was the case before 1980-81. Reports compiled from workers compensation claims are submitted by insurance companies, self-insurers, and State Government departments through the South Australian Department of Labour.

3. The new reporting system provides that for events which occurred during 1980-81:

- (a) reports were to be completed progressively as claims were closed;
- (b) for claims unclosed at 30 September 1981, insurers were to submit reports during October 1981 including their estimates of final outcome, total payments and absence.

Not all relevant reports were received in time for inclusion in this publication. Appendix E provides an indication of the extent of late reporting. Users should therefore be cautious in interpreting year to year movements.

4. Tables 1, 2, 3, 5 and 9 include for the first time numbers of events classified by outcome, i.e. fatal, permanent total or permanent partial disability and temporary disability. Other data on noise induced hearing loss claims (see Appendix B) and journey and recess accident cases (see Appendix C) are included for the first time.

5. Only claims within the scope of the South Australian Workers Compensation Act, 1971-1979 are included provided that they result in any one of the following:

- (a) absence from work of one week or more;
- (b) death;
- (c) permanent total disability;
- (d) noise induced hearing loss.

Notable exclusions are most self-employed persons and all Australian Government employees. Exclusion of self-employed persons is likely to have a marked effect on figures for industries where self-employment is prevalent (e.g. retail trade, rural industries). Because of the exclusion of Australian Government employees, some industry classifications are not covered at all (e.g. defence services and communications), while coverage is reduced in other industries.

DEFINITIONS

6. For the purposes of this collection the following definitions have been adopted.

Agency of accident. The underlying factor (object, substance or circumstance), other than human failing, which was most closely associated with the accident and which in general could have been guarded against or corrected.

Amount paid. Compensation for wages lost, and for hospital and medical payments and lump sum settlements. Estimates in respect of unclosed claims are included. Payments recovered under third party motor vehicle insurance policies are excluded.

Industrial accident. An event following an isolated and sudden exposure to a hazard and resulting in a compensatable work injury. Some events may occur while working, while travelling between one's residence and place of work (journey cases) or during recess periods.

Industrial disease. A compensatable condition exhibiting at least one of the following characteristics:

- (a) the slow and protracted nature of its cause;
- (b) its ascribability to repeated or continuous action of a mechanical, physical or chemical nature;
- (c) the indeterminateness of the time of its beginning.

Type of accident. Either the manner of contact of the injured person with the object or substance, or the exposure or movement of the person which resulted in the injury.

CLASSIFICATIONS

7. For the purposes of this publication the following classifications have been adopted.

Agency and type of accident. Both classifications are based on those recommended by the International Labour Office (ILO).

Nature of disease/injury. Both based on the ninth revision (1975) of the World Health Organisation's International Statistical Classification of Diseases, Injuries and Causes of Death.

Industry. The workplace of the injured worker is classified in accordance with the 1978 edition of the Australian Standard Industrial Classification.

Location of injury. The location of the principal injury is classified in accordance with ILO recommendations.

Occupation. Classified in accordance with the 1976 Population Census Classification of Occupations.

COMPARABILITY OF SERIES

8. Before 1980-81:

- (a) details for non-fatal events were compiled for the year in which each claim was closed, except where a claim remained open for three years. In this latter case the claim was treated as closed for statistical purposes after three years;
- (b) diseases caused by an identifiable single event were classified as accidents;
- (c) events resulting in permanent total disability had 'time lost' statistically set at 156 weeks.

From 1980-81:

- (a) details are compiled for the year in which the compensatable events occur;
- (b) diseases described as being caused by a single event are classified as diseases;
- (c) no 'time lost' is applied for events resulting in permanent total disability.

See also paragraph 4 for data introduced in 1980-81 for the first time.

SYMBOLS AND OTHER USAGES

- n.a. not available
- n.e.c. not elsewhere classified
- n.p. not available for publication but included in totals where applicable

- r figure revised since previous issue
- .. not applicable
- nil or rounded to zero
- break in continuity of series (where a line is drawn across a column between two consecutive figures in the same column).

12 Where figures have been rounded, discrepancies may occur between sums of the component items and totals.

NOISE INDUCED HEARING LOSS CLAIMS

The noise induced hearing loss (NIHL) data in the tables below refer to non-fatal diseases which generally involve little or no time lost from work: those cases involving time lost of one week or more are included also in the main tables. 1980-81 was the first year all NIHL claims were included.

SUMMARY OF ORIGINAL CLAIMS

The table below is a summary of original claims within the scope of the collection. For details of the break in series between 1980-81 and earlier years, see paragraph 8 of the Explanatory Notes.

2. Details relating to journey and recess accidents are excluded from the main tables because these events are not generally associated with the occupation of the employee nor the industry of the employer, and may not occur in the normal workplace or in the course of normal working activities.

(a) Figures in brackets are estimates and are included in the adjacent totals.

(b) From 1980-81 permanent total disability cases have no time lost; previously such cases were allotted 156 weeks. There were 56 cases in 1980-81.

Of the 16,532 non-fatal accident and disease claims for 1980-81 shown above, 823 involved time on light duties (in addition to time actually lost or estimated to be lost from work) totalling 2,925 weeks.

Total compensation already paid in respect of the 16,575 claims for 1980-81 of $30.62 million consisted of $17.88 million in the form of weekly payments, $5.32 million lump sum payments and $7.42 million other hospital and medical etc. payments. It was estimated that a further $24.16 million of payments would be made in respect of these claims.

APPENDIX D

RE-OPENED CLAIMS

A number of closed original claims are re-opened because of additional payments and further incapacity in respect of the initial accident or disease. Some of those re-openings add to the time lost and amount paid for events already counted, while others bring previously excluded events into the scope of this collection. A summary of both types of re-opened claims for accidents and diseases that occurred in 1980-81 is given below.

RE-OPENED CLAIMS 1980-81

Description	Previously counted					Additional cases					Total (a)
